

"POOR DIGESTION, LAGUID AND TIRED."

[An Interesting Letter Concerning Pe-ru-na.]

Miss Della Janveau, Globe Hotel, Ottawa, Ont., is from one of the oldest and best known French Canadian families in Canada. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, she says:

"Last spring my blood seemed clogged up, my digestion poor, my head ached and I felt languid and tired all the time. My physician prescribed for me, but a friend advised me to try Peruna. I tried it and am pleased to state that I found it a wonderful cleanser and purifier of the system. In three weeks I was like a new woman, my appetite had increased, I felt buoyant, light and happy and without an ache or pain. Peruna is a reliable family medicine."

Adia Brittain, of Sekiton, O., writes:

"After using your wonderful Peruna three months I have had great relief. I had continual heaviness in my stomach, was bilious, and had fainting spells, but they all have left me since using Peruna. Adia Brittain."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address: Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Yours for a Clear Head BROMO-SELTZER

10¢ SOLD EVERYWHERE

Not long ago, a lady was choosing a spring hat, with the usual uncertainty of mind as to the kind of hat she wanted, or whether, indeed, she wanted a hat at all. After trying on nearly every model in the shop, she pounced with glee on one she had overlooked.

"Here's something pretty," she said. "Why did you not show me this before?" Without waiting for an answer, she appealed to her patient friend, "There's some style about this, isn't there? How do I look?"

The friend distinctly sniffed.

"It makes you look a hundred, and it's very dowdy," she said.

The other tried the hat at another angle.

"It is rather dowdy," she admitted, at this juncture: "perhaps I won't risk it after all."

A voice from behind her made its third attempt to gain a hearing.

"If you've quite done with my hat," it said very bitterly, "I should rather like to put it on."

Just the same as ever
St. Jacobs Oil
continues to be the sure cure of Rheumatism and Neuralgia
Price, 25c. and 50c.

A Woman's Wit.
Many railway disasters have been averted by quick-wittedness on the part of persons who have had little or no official connection with the companies concerned. There is, for example, the boy who saved a train and its hundreds of passengers by waving his coat to warn the driver that the line a little further on had been washed away. And there is also the incident in which the exercise of a woman's wit prevented a train from continuing a perilous journey. In this case the heroine was a Frenchwoman, wife of one of the plate layers. Some years ago while at a level crossing she noticed that a train was on the wrong line, and, not being able to "catch the driver's eye," she took off one of her wooden shoes and threw it at his head. She must have been a woman of some wit, for, as it is recorded, the driver stopped the engine and she must assume that the missile did not miss the mark.

FASTEN AGE MARKS.

Sick kidneys make people look older than they are; hasten the evening days of life; fasten the marks of premature old age. The world over Doan's Kidney Pills is the recognized Kidney Specific.

ACHING backs are eased. Hip, back, and joint pains overcome. Swelling of the limbs and dropsy signs vanish. They correct urine with brick dust sediment, high colored, excessive pain in passing, dribbling, frequency, bed wetting. Doan's Kidney Pills dissolve and remove calculi and gravel. Relieve heart palpitation, sleeplessness, headache, nervousness.

Salem, Mass., March 31, 1903.—I received the sample of Doan's Kidney Pills, and with the use of one more box from my drug store, I am entirely cured of a very lame back.—W. A. CLEVELAND.

Galesburg, Ill., March 30, 1903.—The sample of Doan's Kidney Pills came to hand. I also got one 50-cent box from our drug store, and I am thankful to say the pain across the small of my back disappeared like a snow bank in hot sun. Doan's Pills reach the spot.—ELMER WARREN.

Rose Glen, Pa., March 29, 1903.—The free trial of Doan's Kidney Pills has been of great benefit to me. Since using them I have no occasion to get up so often at night. My complaint affected the bladder more when catching cold.—JOSEPH LEFFERTS.

CAMBRIDGE, WYOMING.—Previous to taking the sample of Doan's Kidney Pills I could scarcely hold my urine. Now I can sleep all night and rarely have to get up, and that acting across my back a little above my hip is gone.—ISAAC W. STEPHENS, Cambridge, Wyo.

FREE-TO-BETTER KIDNEY HEALTH.

Doan's Kidney Pills.
A SPECIFIC FOR KIDNEY AFFECTIONS.

Porter-McKee Co., Buffalo, N.Y.
Please send me by mail, without charge, trial box Doan's Kidney Pills.

Name _____
Post-office _____
State _____
(Cut out coupon on dotted lines and mail to Porter-McKee Co., Buffalo, N.Y.)

Medical Advice Free—Strictly Confidential.

NEWS OF OUR OHIO OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General Buckeye News Notes.

Minor Mention.

Dominic Marsh was killed by the cars at Akron, while standing on the track.

Frank Bartow, a deaf mute, of Milan, was ground to pieces by a W. and L. E. train.

Burglars entered the store of the King Supply Company, at Bellaire, and stole $300 in cash by blowing the safe.

Captain Roy E. Layton of Company I, Ohio National Guard, has forwarded his resignation to the Adjutant General.

At Dennison, George Ashman, aged 14, was instantly killed by coming in contact with a wire charged with electricity.

Old age and its consequent infirmities caused Louis Moore, of Zanesville, to commit suicide, cutting his throat with a razor.

Raymond Snee, aged 7, fell from the third story of the new McKay Hotel building at Steubenville and was fatally injured.

The professional women house cleaners of Bellefontaine, are organizing a union to demand an increase of wages to $1.50 per day.

Elmer Williams, aged 30, was killed at "Dead Man's Crossing," near Plain City, by a train.

The grocery firm of Green Wise, of Fostoria, established 30 years ago, made an assignment at Tiffin to C. W. Hughes. Assets and liabilities each about $2,000.

The body of Edward Canvatt was found floating in Lake Mercer, at Celina. With John Stutler he went to the lake and it is supposed their boat capsized and both were drowned.

The union molders have notified the manufacturers of Springfield that a 10 per cent increase in wages would be requested on May 1. The minimum scale at present is $2.75 for floor men and $2.50 for bench hands.

While digging a ditch on the farm of Henry Verho, near Crosswell, Adia Bear unearthed several mastodon bones, some of which crumbled to dust on exposure to the air. Some of the bones measured twenty inches in circumference.

Smith W. Bennett, in an opinion to Dr. O. C. Probst, Secretary of the State Board of Health, holds that under the code a health officer who has been appointed for a definite term cannot be removed from office or reduced in rank or pay without cause.

Augustus Rowe was arrested at Akron upon the charge of killing a horse. It is alleged that he tied a chain about the horse's neck and fastened the other end to a wagon, and, whipping the other team attached to it, dragged the horse through the streets.

The Commissioners of Union County have granted a franchise for 20 years to the Toledo, Columbus, Springfield and Cincinnati Electric Railroad to operate through that county. A bond of $5,000 has been made the road completed by April 1 next.

Governor Nash has pardoned Adolph Klein, convicted at the April, 1895, term of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court for arson. He was sentenced to serve fifteen years. Klein has been out on parole for two years and wants to leave the State because of ill health.

The Governor has appointed James R. Foster of Waverly, Pike County, a Trustee of the Athens State Hospital to succeed Samuel B. Lightner. Frank Taylor of Monroe County was appointed Trustee of the State Deaf and Dumb Institution, vice George W. Glovers, whose term has expired.

An amusing incident occurred in the court room during the Harris case at Springfield. A mouse ran up the trouser leg of the defendant, William Harris, colored, who is being tried for killing George Farrell. Harris weighs about 400 pounds, but he danced around for a few minutes like a kitten. The mouse made its escape.

A stranger accosted Officer Jack Crawford, near the U. H. depot at Findlay, and asked to be taken to the police station until he could recall his name. He said that his home is in Bluffton, Ind., and that he has a wife and three children there. A letter in his pocket was addressed to George F. Corbin, that his name is his name the stranger denies. A description has been forwarded to Bluffton for identification.

The State Tuberculosis Commission has formulated a report on the matter of the State creating a hospital for consumptive patients. The report will be presented to the governor next week. It will hold that consumption is curable and that Ohio climatic conditions are favorable to cures. The report will say that a suitable sanatorium may be erected for $200,000, but no definite recommendation as to an appropriation will be made.

It has developed that a number of minors convicted at recent municipal elections in Urbana. The boys were ushered to the polls, it is said, by ward politicians and since the election some of them have admitted in public that they voted. On account of prominent family relations the boys may not be compelled to suffer for their serious offense. When a demand was made for an inspection of the poll books and tally sheets, City Clerk Berry refused to allow an inspection, and said that he would keep the documents under lock and key. The fact that minors voted has caused a sensation.

Governor Nash has announced the appointment of Charles Foster of Fostoria, a member of the State Board of Arbitration, to succeed Geo. W. Crouse of Akron. J. S. Jones of Delaware, was reappointed to the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors' Orphan's Home, Zaleski.

The monuments in the Catholic Cemetery, east of South Charleston, have been badly demolished. Every marble monument has been overturned and broken by two. The work has required the efforts of several men, as some of the monuments are quite large. The Trustees of the township will be asked to offer a reward.

The badly mangled body of a man about 30 years old, was found beside the Wheeling and Lake Erie track, in Bedford. Evidently he had been killed by a train. A card was found in his pocket bearing the name A. L. Haffner, and indicating that he was a member of the Iron Molders' Union of Cincinnati.

While blasting stumps on the Neil Doyle farm near Vienna, Clark County, a premature blast sent ten pounds of dynamite carried in a basket by John Carney and he was blown to pieces. William Clark, who was working with him, was at a safe distance and was only slightly injured. Carney leaves a widow and two children.

In the Common Pleas Court of Columbus, Judge Bigger announced that the laws of Ohio should make provision for the appointment of a guardian of the person authorized to file answers to all suits for divorce where the defendants in such action fail to do so. This opinion was brought out after he had entered a decree in a divorce case and then has ascertained that the defendant had not appeared so that he could prosecute an action for damages against the alleged destroyer of his domestic happiness.

The body of Simon Hallam was found at the bottom of a pond near his home in Greenfield. Whether accident or suicide is a mystery.

NEVER SAW SUCH LABOR YIELDS.

The Climate Is Healthy—The Westerners Are Pleasant—In Western Canada.

Writing from Stirling, Alberta, to one of the agents representing the Canadian Government Free Homestead Lands, Mr. M. Pickett, formerly of Bechtold, Ky., says of Western Canada:

"In the first place we will say that the summer season is just lovely indeed. As to the winter, we never experienced finer weather than we are now enjoying. We have just returned from Northern Alberta and will say that we found the weather to be very mild, the air dry, fresh and invigorating. Considering everything we can say that the winter here is very pleasant, healthy and enjoyable to what they are in the States. Here it gets cold and continues so till spring—there are no disagreeable winds. In South Alberta it is some warmer—two to four inches of snow may fall and in a few hours a Chinook wind comes along, melting the snow and leaving them as dry as a bone. In fact, we did not believe this part until we came and saw for ourselves and we now know what we are saying. There has not been a day this winter that I could not work outdoors. Farmers here are calculating on starting the plough the first of March."

"As to farm wages, we would not advise a man to come here with the expectation of living by his days' work, but all who will work hard will advise to have nerve enough to get up and come, for there never has been, and may never be again, such a grand opportunity for a man to get a home almost free."

"As to the crops, I have been in the fields before harvest, saw the grass up and the grain in the wind, and saw such large yields. I saw oats near Edmonton over six feet tall that yielded 80 bushels per acre, and I talked with a farmer near St. Albert who had a field before last that averaged 110 bushels per acre, and weighed 35 pounds to the bushel. All other crops were equally good. The turnip potatoes and vegetables, the turnip was enormous. I have such reports as the above from all sections that I have visited, and I am sure that the community between the Edmonton district and Raymond in the Lethbridge district."

"As to stock raising, I would advise a man to locate in this place, or any place, in South Alberta, for mixed farming. I would say go up farther north, say near Lacrosse, Saskatchewan, where there is some timber to be had. I will say that nowhere have I ever seen a better opportunity for a man to obtain a home. Nowhere can be found a more productive soil, better water and a better governed country than in Western Canada. The homesteads to the homesteader are unequalled. I met two men near Ponoka on the C. & E. R. R., who borrowed the money to pay for their homestead and in four years those two men sold their farms—one for $2,500, the other for $3,000. I met a man near Wetaskiwin who had been on his homestead six years ago. He is now worth $5,000. The advantages for ranching are excellent. In fact, I do not believe this section can be beat. Much more could be said, but I will not say as much as I could. As a cheap place to live, family can be in the States. The average yield of oats in this neighborhood, last year, was 70 bushels per acre; wheat averaged 50 bushels per acre, and the best crop was good. In consequence of the successful cultivation of the best, a large beet sugar factory is being erected at Raymond, seven miles from here."

"In conclusion I will say that N. W. T., from Manitoba to a long distance north of Edmonton, produces most wonderful crops. Lakes and rivers abound with fish, and game is plentiful. And that this is unquestionably the best place for a man to live who desires to better his condition in life. I would advise the prospective settler to look over the Lethbridge, Edmonton and the Lethbridge district before locating."

"I will locate in the Edmonton district next fall and several families from the States will locate with me. In the meantime, I will receive mail here and will be pleased to give the interested all the information de sired. For information as to railway rates etc., apply to any agent of the Canadian Government, whose names appear elsewhere in this paper."

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

After the Eviction.
Eve—You'll never forsake me, will you, Adam?
Adam—Oh, I don't know! I have other ribs.

Gonod's mother was fond of painting and music.

READY FOR PUBLICATION.

Man Who Had Visited Montana Knew What Papers Wanted.

A Detroit man who had been spending two months in Montana arrived home the other day, and when a reporter called at his house to interview him the little affair was found to be a very interesting one. The man, who is called the Speaker, is a Detroit Free Press man, and he says the following:

"I gained fifteen pounds. 'Haven't felt so well for ten years. 'Climate of Montana is the most glorious in the world. 'Saw many Indians. Saw many Indian blankets to bring home. After boiling it for a week or so it will be left out for about forty nights to freeze. 'Bought several Indian arrows stained with blood. Didn't ask whether it was human blood or cow's blood. They never make any explanation in Montana. 'Rode a bucking broncho. Usual results followed. Broncho also broke his neck at the same time. 'Was impressed by the mountains. Returned home dissatisfied with Michigan because of being out there. 'Saw many genuine cowboys. Was rather disappointed to find most of them deacons of churches, but was assured that they couldn't help it. 'Was out after grizzly bears several times, but obtained no interviews. Was told that this was the reason when they retire to the tops of the highest trees. I did not agree the matter. They never argue in Montana. 'Heard the howl of mountain lion one evening when returning to camp. Was informed that he was howling to get the grizzly bear. He was finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky, hand-made-down looking outfit, but it was an evening suit, all the same. Mr. Reed's eyes twinkled when he saw the suit, but he didn't say anything. The delegate twiddled around Mr. Reed's den nervously, rubbing at the Speaker's shoulder of the corner of his eye to see what kind of a bit the dress togs were making, and having horrible difficulty with his unoccupied hands. Mr. Reed, his eyes twinkling all the time, nevertheless remained mute, and his silence got the delegate's nerves all a-jingling. Finally he could stand it no longer, and getting up and facing the Speaker he blurted out: 'D—n it all, Tom, how do you like this suit? 'It's a first-rate,' drawled Mr. Reed. 'Why don't you buy one?'

"Mr. Reed and this territorial delegate were both invited to a club dinner, and they arranged to go to the affair together from the hotel. On the night of the club dinner, about half an hour before the two men were to start, the delegate, looking sheepish, hang-dog, and guilty 'way down to the ground, appeared in Mr. Reed's den. He wore an evening suit. It was a pretty, bulky